For example, here you see that a German Excel will use semicolon instead of comma like in the U.. How can I set Excel 2013, once and for all, to display CSV files (comma separated) prettily? Open the CSV file with a decent text editor like Notepad++ and add the following text in the first line: Now open it with excel again.. Open Blank Workbook Go to DATA tab Click button From Text in the General External Data section.. By default Excel will assume every CSV was saved with that separator Which is true as long as the CSV doesn't come from another country! If your customers are in other countries, they may see other results then you think.. This will set the separator as a comma, or you can change it to whatever you need.
